goal for the first touchdown, but from that time until toward the end of the third quarter, the Southerners held the Morgantown team in closed plays, demonstrating its prowess on the field at all stages of the play. In the final quarter West Virginia began open play and forward passes in which Chenoweth and Rodgers showed sterling qualities, putting old dominion crew to rout, two more touchdowns being made in that period.  Tech's backfield was too slow to cope with the Mountaineers in the class of play and was usually at a loss in the effort to check the advances due to that style of play. The lineup and summary:  Y. P. I.—0. W. Y. U.—20.	HUNTINGTON, Oct. 14.—All local football fans are looking forward to the first college game on the Marshall College home schedule October 24 with Kentucky Wesleyan. Two games have been played on Marshall Field, but they have been in the nature of practice games. The withdrawal of five men for various reasons has greatly weakened the Marshall backfield, yet the Big Green is showing good form. Kentucky Wesleyan was beaten by Marshall last fall for the only win on the local card. Advance notices from the Kentucky stronghold are to the effect that the locals have caught a tartar this time. An interesting contest can be expected.	b en H de ta go L fe g p vi on p

Chenoweth	The objection of the parents of Calloway and Moore, both halfbacks; illness in the home of Davidson; Burks enforced return to work; and Snedegars withdrawal from school, all together has made a big hole in the Marshall squad. Coach Chambers said recently that those five men were the best backfield he had ever seen. Still the present combination of backs, Fisher, B.
